

Harvesting Dignity in Midwestern Fields and Factories:

Understanding and Defending Immigrant Workers' Rights on the Job

A one-day conference designed to bring together Midwestern immigrant rights advocates, labor leaders, and community service providers to review basic workplace legal protections and discuss the role of local community organizations in promoting compliance with these laws.

Keynote Address by Ana
Avenidaño, Assistant to the President and Director of Immigration and Community
Action at the AFL-CIO

Sponsored by University of Iowa Labor Center, University of Iowa Center for Human Rights, Office of Special Counsel for Immigration-Related Unfair Employment Practices (Civil Rights Division) of the U.S. Department of Justice, with the cooperation of the Iowa Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO.

Printed at UI Copy Centers by workers represented by AFSCME Local 12, Council 61.

NOV 13, 2010
University of Iowa campus
1117 University Capitol Centre

SESSIONS WILL INCLUDE:

OVERVIEW OF WORKERS' RIGHTS UNDER U.S. LABOR AND EMPLOYMENT LAW. A basic introduction to federal legal protections governing workplace conditions.

UNDERSTANDING WORKERS' RIGHTS UNDER FEDERAL IMMIGRATION LAW. Includes discussion of the federal E-Verify program, the I-9 process, re-verification of documents, and I-9 audits.

GAPS BETWEEN LEGAL RIGHTS AND COMPLIANCE: With attention to the barriers immigrant workers face in defending labor standards

LOCAL COMMUNITY STRATEGIES FOR PROMOTING EDUCATION AND COMPLIANCE. How are labor and community organizations around the country working together to promote quality jobs in their communities?

To register, contact joan-nashelsky@uiowa.edu
Free and open to the public.
Visit www.uichr.org for conference updates and general information.